Orleans County Fair, 1872.

The first day of the Sixth Annual Fair of the Orleans County Agricultural Society, held at Barton Vt., Tuesday and Wednesday, October 1st and 2d, 1872, opened with thin clouds overhead, and with mercury pointing at the 45 degree mark. Although cloudy, until noon it did not rain, and then but little; and though slightly cool, none suffered materially, providing they had the forethought to bring along overcoats and shawls. So far, then, as the wind and weather were concerned, the day was as favorable as could reasonably be expected so late in the fall of such a year as this. Articles came in slowly, but steadily, from all sections of the county, until afternoon, and at 2 o'clock there was a very good show of cattle, horses and sheep, and nearly all the other departments were unusually full; more entries having been made up at that time, than were made in both days of last year, and we understand that a year ago, more entries were made on the second day, than on the first day. Again the indications seem to point towards a successful Fair in 1872 as well as heretofore. The number of people in attendance was not large, although about the same as usual on the first day of previous Fairs. One hundred and ninety-one gate tickets were sold and one hundred and twenty-five membership tickets. Many membership tickets had been sold previous to the fair, so that the number of people present could not be judged by the number of tickets sold.

Passing in at the lower gate and turning to the right, we came to the cattle stalls. Mr. H. C. Cleveland of Coventry, who is the owner of some of the best stock in the county and state, did not exhibit anything this year, for the reason that most of his animals had just returned from the State Fair and had become somewhat foot-sore, so that he preferred letting them rest to taking them out again so soon.

We should be glad to give the name of every exhibitor, as well as the name, age, weight and color of every animal and the name of every article exhibited, had we time and space; but to do this through all the departments, would weary the patience of the most Job-like in reading them, and require a man with an iron wrist and everlasting perseverance to write them up. In making a hasty pass along the line, then, we mention a few that attracted our attention; and in doing this, no doubt we pass some as worthy of notice, as those mentioned.

Thomas Baker, of Barton, exhibited a herd of thirteen full-blood Dutch cattle, three Grades, two full-blood Durhams and one Jersey grade. Among these was a fine looking black-back and white-bellied Dutch bull, which Tom told us would weigh about 2000 pounds. He also thought he had the heaviest cow on the ground, but did not know her weight, and as we had no steelyards we did not weigh her; but she was a good cow and no mistake, and all of his stock looked well. Duncan Buchanan, of Albany, exhibited nine head of Ayrshires and Grades. Among them were some fine looking cows, which we have not a particle of doubt would give as rich milk as ever soldier streamed into a canteen. Webster Robinson, of Barton is the owner of one common Yankee cow, good sized, bright red, square built and handsome as the gayest belle on the ground. As we stood near the stall we heard two or three passers-by remark that there was the "handsomest cow" they had seen. On the east side of the row of stalls, and in the first stall on the south, was a well-watched pair of two years old Durham steers, owned by D. J. Ware, of Irasburgh, which measured six feet in girth and weighed 2205 pounds. Salmon Nye, of Coventry, in the next stall had a three years old Durham bull weighing 1500; also in the next stall a two years old Durham bull, which we saw him, was shaking his horns and pawing as though he would disembowel the earth, and growling like mad. We have no doubt he is a good-headed bull on most occasions, but he evidently did not fancy going to the fair and not being allowed the privilege of seeing the sights. We, however, was glad that he was hitched.

Three pairs of fat oxen were entered, 15 pairs of steers and a town team from Barton. There were 12 spans of horses entered, 11 single horses, 7 brood mares, and 35 colts under three years old. Of Sheep, there were one hundred and fifty head, no one having less than a "bag full" of wool, and some of them, "three bags full" and nary a "black sheep" in the whole lot. This is said to be the best exhibition of sheep ever given upon the grounds, there being many pens of the different grades. Among them were 7 fine looking Leicester lambs shown by A. C. & F. Phillips, of Glover; grade Cotswold buck, coarse wool buck, yearling Cotswold grade buck and 5 Cotswold ewes by L. S. Nye, of Coventry; large grade Cotswold buck, by I. McNeal, of Barton. There were other lots that were nearly, if not quite as good as any of these.

The show of swine was small, only 4 pens. Isaac Kimball, of Coventry, had a White Chester sow and ten pigs; sow sired by an Ohio Chester, introduced into this section of the county by H. C. Cleveland; pigs sired by a Pennsylvania White Chester. These were the cleanest looking specimens of the hog and pig kind we ever saw. They seemed to have a dread of dirt and were as white as the linen of a dandy fresh from the laundry; were nine weeks old, weighed from 40 to 60 pounds each and were valued at 6 dollars. George T. Clark also exhibited a sow and 11 Chester pigs, four weeks old, which were also clean and lively little fellows. Harry Cheney of Westmore, and H. O. Whiteher, of Barton, each exhibited a fine boar, which made up the list of swine.

FRUIT.—N. F. Ball, of West Derby, exhibited 5 varieties of English apples—Peach Apple, Rip-Stone Pippins, Shaker Greenings, St. Lawrence, and the Emperor Alexander; the tree from which the last named variety was picked, was a young one, only 4 feet high; some of the apples measured nine inches the largest way. He also exhibited ten varieties of crab apples. It has been a poor season for apples in this part of the state, says Mr. Ball. Much damage was done in his nursery, and elsewhere, by hail storms. Moses Beedle, of Barton, exhibited 5 varieties of native Crabs and several varieties of English apples: a pan of grapes—a sample of some five or six bushels raised by himself this year. The crab apples raised by Mr. Beedle, according to statements of experienced fruit growers, are superior to any other variety raised in this vicinity. E. C. Rowell, of Albany, exhibited two varieties of Russian apples grown on trees transplanted 3 years ago, some of which measured twelve inches in circumference.

OF VEGETABLES, there probably has not since the organization of the Society, been a greater show than was shown this year. Of great pumpkins, squashes, melons, turnips, cabbages, beets, carrots, &c., there was no end—enough to make "Vegetable Hair Invigorators" and "Vegetable" patent medicines enough to grease the hair of all the girls and boys and cure all the dyspepsias in New England. A gentleman who was at the Franklin County Fair, told us that there was four times as good a show as in that county. In this department Homer Bradley, of Brownington, made some 20 entries, showing at least, his willingness to help keep up the good reputation of the Society. Others did as well. On the same table with the vegetables, Mr. Bradley shows a sample of the Silver Hull Buck wheat—first ever shown in the county. It is claimed that this will yield double the number of bushels to the acre and make better flour than the common kind. Daniel Owen and Martin Batchelder, of Barton showed some monster beets; some of them as large as logs. Lewis Arnold of Salem, showed some Jasper Melons, which we heard some lady say she thought would be "good to eat." Ed. Standish, of Glover had the best string of onions; J. J. Hill, of Barton, the largest cabbages.

As business at the printing office only allowed us a part of the day, we were obliged to leave off here, until the 2d day. At one o'clock, there was a grand cavalcade of all horses entered. Then came the cavalcade of town teams and yokes of cattle in class five. Either of these cavalcades was worth going ten miles to see; the light-footed horses moving swiftly off, like the bounding antelope, while the heavy column of yoked-up oxen, moved slowly and majestically on, like the steady rolling in of the ocean tide.

SECOND DAY. On the morning of the second day, the weather seemed rather unfavorable; cold north wind with now and then a slight lifting of rain. This, it was feared, would keep people at home so that the attendance would be small. But, instead of that, the farmers made up their minds that if they stayed at home they should do nothing, and that they would take our advice and "go to the Fair, whether-or-no." And they did come in a continual stream until noon, at which time the attendance was as large as that of any previous Fair. New entries were made and the exhibition of articles in the Floral Hall building was the largest and best ever witnessed in this county; and we venture to say that there has not been a better show of agricultural produce at any other fair in the State. Of this the officers of the Society and Farmers of Orleans County may justly feel proud.

Of butter, there were exhibited nineteen tubs, and no two tubs by any one competitor. Of course, where there are so many, all cannot get premiums. The butter was all good. Nearly everybody in Vt. that makes it, all makes no other, and we wish all could get premium No. 1, but because you cannot, do not say that you will "never carry anything more to the Fair" as is too often the case with competitors who sometimes think the Awarding Committee are partial when it is not so. About 500 acres of seed corn were shown, all large ears and fat kernels, and but very little difference in traces.

In the Mechanical department were exhibited, Jewett's Patent Milk Pans, by Martin & Seaver, of Craftsbury, which seems to be a well-known and almost indispensable article among farmers who keep a large dairy. Russell & Smith of Richford also exhibited a patent pan called "R. Smith's Improvement in Butter Making," consisting of two large pans in an open vessel of tin or metal, called a cooler, which they claim to be superior to all others in durability, cheapness and convenience. Moulton Brothers & Co., of Morrisville, showed specimens of Moulton's Patent Wooden Water Tubing, said to be the purest, cheapest, and most durable water conductor known, and is warranted not to burst by freezing, and so constructed that it will stand a very great pressure. A sample was shown which had been under ground nine years, in sandy land, and was perfectly sound. The "National Hay Tedder," by E. D. & O. Reynolds, of North Bridgewater, Mass. Also the Victor Horse Hoe, by the same. Charles J. Ufford, of Barton, exhibited the only carriage, an open buggy, trimmed, painted and ornamented in the best style. Ufford's wagons are gaining popularity, as the increase of his sales testify; and why people will go a hundred miles, pay more, and get poorer carriages, is more than we can tell. J. J. Hill, of Barton, exhibited sewing machines of nearly every popular manufacture and showed specimens of their work.

F. P. Cheney exhibited a Domestic Sewing-machine and samples of its work. It is claimed that one size of this machine will do as great a range of work as two or three sizes of the other kinds, using the coarse three cord cotton and linen thread which other "Family" machines cannot use, and doing the fine sewing with the same perfection and even greater certainty than the lighter machines.

Judging from its size and power, the larger size of its shuttle-hobbin, the quality of the work, and the ready off-hand manner in which it handles any size and quality of thread, from a tiny 200 cotton, to coarse Barbour's linen, we think there is the strongest kind of evidence that it can maintain its claims and that it justly deserves the patronage of the people.

H. O. Whiteher showed some comfortable looking cook and parlor stoves, as well as some indispensable articles of tin ware. J. B. Fasset, of Enosburgh, shows two Taylor and Farley Organs, manufactured at Worcester, Mass, which he claims to be the best finished and best sounding organ manufactured, for the price. S. W. Parker, of Newport, exhibited one of Wood's Parlor and Vestry Organs, manufactured at Cambridgeport, Mass. Also one of the Mason and Hamlin Cabinet Organs, made at 153 Tremont street, Boston. The exhibitors of these organs favored all those within hearing, with vocal and instrumental music, which seemed to throw a sort of cheerful ray on the countenances of those without overcoats. A handy article for the washerwoman was shown by Z. E. Jameson, in the shape of a new patent Clothes Wringer, called the "Providence," manufactured by the Providence Tool Co. Every year brings improvements on almost every patent article, and this is probably the latest thing out in the wringer line, and not only the latest, but the best.

In the ladies' department, was shown by Nellie Hall, of Barton Landing, a splendid Crayon view of Lake Champlain. Arthur Buswell, of Barton, exhibited specimens of peniciling of Gen. Washington and the Map of North America. Mrs. Mary Skinner, of Barton a handsome wreath of wax leaves. Wax wreaths by Jennie Mosman and Abbie Dutton of Barton, and Mrs. Dr. Parkhurst, of Irasburgh; large hair wreath by Mrs. Chester Williams, and many others, too numerous to mention. Bertie Holbrook, of Irasburgh, showed four white mice which attracted a great deal of attention. Bertie says that he raises them to sell, at ten cents a pair. Mrs. S. B. Kimball, of Albany had a fragrant and beautiful bouquet of cut flowers. Mrs. J. B. Williams shows wax fruit, of grapes, apples, peach, pear, tomatoes, corn, &c., all as perfect and natural as could be. A feather wreath, made by Abbie Carpenter, an invalid, was a handsome one. Mrs. Polly Blodgett exhibited a slipper made and worn by herself at a dance on the occasion of her wedding, in September, 1790. On the south side of the Hall were shown rugs and quilts—oh, my! so many that we couldn't think of mentioning them. So many shapes, and all imaginable sorts of flowers and pictures drawn into them. As Artemus Ward used to say: "Oh, woman! you're a genius!"

Our attention was called to a nice lot of vegetables brought in the second day from out side of the county, by A. M. Foster, of Cabot. Among the lot were Lane's sugar beet, very clean looking, good sized and free from fibers. Large white Belgium carrot for cattle and sheep, Hubbard and American and Turban squash, King of early potatoes of which he raised 400 bushels to the acre. Some fine samples of tub and drained sugar. We might go on and mention things brought in and not give them half the praise they deserve, and make four times—yes ten times as much as we have, but ladies and gentlemen, you brought so many things that it is too much.

At precisely 9:30 A. M., the grand cavalcade of all horses entered, took place; 13 double teams, 25 single, and about 40 horses and colts without harness, making an army of horses reaching two-thirds of the way around the track. The Agricultural Society acknowledge the efforts of three children, Carl Jewell, Minnie Brown and Nellie Ufford, who sang upon the fair ground, and award them three dollars. Immediately after the singing of the children, Mr. Vance of Albany, had the track to show a remarkable mare of his, which has been through the war, and has since raised seven colts which were also there at the same time. Of this mare, Henry Cleveland, President of the Society, addressing the people spoke as follows: LADIES AND GENTLEMEN.—This mare served in the army during the late war, showing the most remarkable power of endurance, by her constant readiness for the severest service, even after participating in the most active campaigns of the armies of the Potomac and the Shenandoah Valley. They who are familiar with the movements of these armies know full well that less than one in a hundred of the horses that followed them in their trying movements, endured the service without being partially or entirely broken down. She has not only done this without injury to herself, but during this time was noted for her energy and wonderful power for leaping fences, ditches, &c. under the saddle. Her appearance to-day, together with her seven colts on the ground, all by Albany Boy, and the list of premiums from the state and county Fairs as saddle horse and brood mare, speak louder than words for her true merit. The premiums were then read by Secretary Jameson, and thus ended the Sixth and best Annual Fair of the Orleans County Agricultural Society. We presume it was an oversight that the case of boots and shoes from Messrs. Davis & Son received no premium from the committee. They were indeed very meritorious and should have been properly noticed. In another part of the paper we give the premium list.

THE RACES.—THURSDAY, OCT. 3. The attendance on the 3d day, was good. It was estimated that there was from 2,500 to 3,000 people on the ground. The trotting commenced about 10 o'clock A. M., and finished up at about 4 P. M.

Purse No. 1 was a premium of $50 open to all horses that never trotted in public for money; $35 to first, $10 to second, and $5 to third. Nine horses were entered for this purse, but only six were on the ground viz: "Eve," owned by O. S. Dorman of Newport; Black Dexter, by G. W. Walworth of Coventry; Black Diamond, by H. S. Brewster of Newport; Nellie Lawrence, C. N. Farley, Barton; Black Dick, by J. H. Brown of Barton Landing; Jennie Lind, by John Gilchrist of Melndoes. O. S. Dorman took the first, H. S. Brewster the second, and G. W. Walworth the third. Although business at the office prevented our being present in the forenoon, we understand from those who were there that the trotting was good for green horses. Although Black Dexter took the 3d premium, and seemed a little clumsy, we heard him flatteringly spoken of by several, who seemed to think that with proper training, he will some day make a good trotter. Perhaps others did better, we make a note of this because we overheard it in a conversation. Purse No. 2 was a Foot Race—premium of $10; $5 to first, $3 to second, and $2 to third. The first was won by King of Glover; we have been unable to learn who won the second; 3d by Zuar Rowell of Barton. Purse No. 3 premium of $50 for Gentlemen's driving horses that never trotted for money. Owners to drive to road wagon, for a single dash of three miles. $35 to first; $10 to second; $5 to third. The purse was trotted for by "Eve," owned by O. S. Dorman of Newport and Black Whalebone owned by I. C. Hopkins of Barton Landing. "Eve" won the purse, but until the last time round Whalebone kept close by. Time, 1:10. Purse No. 4, a premium of $150 open to all horses that never trotted better than 2:40; $100 to first, $35 to second, 15 to third. Trotted for by Old Bailey owned by Jerry Drew of St. Johnsbury, and Midnight, owned by Thomas Murphy of Sherbrooke, P. Q. Three heats were trotted, Midnight coming in ahead every time, and of course won the first premium; but Old Bailey nearly had Midnight's long tail in his mouth every time. This was the closest and most exciting race of the day—the other races not being so evenly matched. One of the Judges remarked that it was the best trotting he had seen this year. Purse No. 5, a premium of $500.—Open to all horses; $300 to first, $150 to second, $50 to third. This purse was easily and handsomely won in three heats, by Jerry Drew, owned by Jerry Drew of St. Johnsbury, who trotted against "Sir George" owned by Baker of St. Hyacinthe. These races were mile heats, best 3 in 5 to harness, —governed by the rules of the National Association—barring time, weight and distance. Thus ended the Fifth annual races of the Orleans Fair Ground Company.—Everything passed off quietly and satisfactorily, the races proved a success to the Company. The St. Johnsbury Band, which is one of the best bands in the state, was present and favored those in attendance with many fine pieces of music. They distil large quantities of peach brandy in Kansas, and sell it for $3 per gallon.

AN EXCELLENT JOKE.—In a fashionable Scotch church in London (the correspondent of the Dundee Advertiser writes) there has been a "scandalous" little incident, very painful to one unfortunate man, and very amusing to many others. A gentleman well known in society recently deserted his wife, and she, poor creature, has since been roaming about the world in search of him. Having been informed that her husband "worshipped" pretty regularly in the church alluded to, she went there in a great rage, and during the service fixed her eyes on a highly respectable elder, who, though not her husband, was amazingly like him. Immediately after the services concluded, the excited woman rushed from the gallery where she had been sitting, and without waiting to make certain whether she was right or wrong, seized the unfortunate elder by the whiskers and poured a shower of blows on his head. Before her mistake was made known to her and an explanation given, the poor elder's frontispiece was black and blue. He did not give the woman into custody, but, like a good christian, took her home with him to dinner.
